Ganga aarti

Varanasi or Banaras, referred to in the Scriptures as 'Kashi' derived its name from the word 'Kash' meaning Brightness- 'The city of Light'. It has been propagating Indian Culture, Philosophy and traditions among masses from the times immemorial.

Varanasi is the most famous and the oldest inhabited city of the world and boasts of being among the seven sacred cities (Sapta Puries) of the ancient India. The trinity of birth, life and even death carry equal importance here. It is situated on the bank of river Ganges which has two tributaries: Varuna and Assi; so is the name Varanasi.

Perhaps this is the only city which is endowed with a rare combination of holy river Ganges, abode of Supreme God Shiva and the oldest living city itself. It remains vibrant throughout the year. Its temple-ghats bear testimony to its glorious past, bright present and prosperous future. Its religion, culture and traditions are so beautifully mingled that it gives the city a unique ambience.

Varanasi

The precious compliment by the famous American Writer Mark Twain about this heritage city is worth mentioning: 'Banaras is older than history, older than traditions, even older than legend and looks twice as old as all of them put together'.

The city is the centre of a variety of cultural and religious activities including learning, literature and art. Famous Bhakti movement poets and the doyens of Indian literature, prominent philosophers, writers and musicians are associated with this multi- dimensional and multi-faceted city. It is an important seat of learning and houses one of the most venerable educational institutions- Banaras Hindu University, one of the largest residential universities in Asia. It has the proud privilege of having Sarnath in the vicinity where Lord Buddha delivered his first sermon after getting Enlightened.

It is the hub of various cottage industries mainly in weaving and hand- loom sector. Banarasi muslin, ultra fine silk, carpet, perfumes, ivory works, pearls & beads and sculptures are world famous for their luster and beauty.

Undoubtedly, no other city in the world can be a parallel to this magnificent city.

Festivals

Festivals, fairs and umpteen rituals give Varanasi a colourful and diverse look. It is said that in 365 days 400 festivals are celebrated here.

Dev Deepawali

The most picturesque festival, Dev Deepawali is celebrated every year fifteen days after the traditional Deepawali by the banks of river Ganga. The ghats come alive with lights, chants & prayers. The mighty Ganga is lit up with endless floating lamps. It's an infinitely divine experience.

Dev Deepawali

People and Gods together celebrate Deepawali, the stream of Ganga looks like the holy pathway connecting from heavens to land. The high spirits of the festival and the waves of joy around the city, create an inimitable scene to be experienced.

This is the only reason, why millions of people from the entire country and all over the world gather in the holy grounds of Varanasi and celebrate the jubilant carnival of Gods and humans. Illuminating diyas are decorated on the steps of Ghats and the Ganga can be seen under shimmering lamps floating along with the lights from hundreds of boats.

Ganga Mahotsav- The five-day festival, with all its rituals and customs, traditional music and dance shows portrays the cultural heritage of Varanasi.

Nakkataiya- The Nakkataiya Mela takes place on the night of Kartik Krishna Chaturthi, one week after Vijaydashami. The events of Ramcharit Manas are displayed in this fair such as; Lakshmana cuts the nose of Surpnakha, Ravana's sister. The main attraction of this fair is the performance of Surpnakha's war along with her brothers with Lord Ram.

Bharat Milap - Bharat Milap is the most important part of the Ramilila festival and is celebrated to commemorate the arrival of Lord Rama to his kingdom, Ayodhya and embrace his younger brother Bharat who had been waiting for him for 14 years. People from all over the world visits Varanasi to witness this emotional reunion at Nati Imli. The history of this fair date back to approximately 450 years. It is celebrated between the month of October and November.

Budhwa Mangal- Budhwa Mangal Utsav is dedicated to the old age form of Hanuman ji. The festival is held on the last Tuesday of the month of Bhadrapada / Bhadoon, which is also known as Budhe Mangal in popular language. This festival is celebrated with great pomp in the approximately 300 years old Hanuman Bari complex in Nagla Khushali.

Nag Nathaiya- Nag Nathaiya festival is a part of the Krishna Leela ceremony, a mythological tradition involving depiction of Lord Krishna's conquest of the serpent Kaliya. The Nag Nathaiya festival of Varanasi is held at the Tulsi Ghat in the month of Nov-Dec.

Govardhan Puja/Annakoot- Annakoot is celebrated to acknowledge the episode of Lord Krishna's win over Indra by lifting Govardhan hill and thus protected the cowherd clan of Vrindavan. People celebrate this puja by making food of cereals such as wheat, rice, curry of gram flour and leafy vegetables in order to offer to Lord Krishna.

Mahashivratri Mahotsav Varanasi a 06 days long event was held at the Raj Ghat of Varanasi from 11th March to 16th March 2021 on the blessed occasion of Mahashivratri. Various cultural and spiritual performances and shows were incorporated in this event.

Panchkoshi Parikrama

The importance of Panchkoshi Yatra is rooted in centuries of faith. It is said that Treta Yuga for the very first time Lord Rama started this pilgrimage with his wife Sita and brothers who to make his father from the curse of the parents of Shraavan Kumar. It is also mentioned that in Dwapar Yuga, Pandavas did this yatra along with Draupadi. Later, Adi Shankaracharya steepened this yatra and propagated amongst his followers, Panch Kroschi Yatra is well defined in the Kashi Khand of Skand Purana.

On this 85 Km long circular walk, there are 108 sacred places in Panchkroschi Yatra in which 56 Shivlingam, 2 Bhairav, 11 Vinayaka, 4 Vishnu, 10 Goddess Temple including other sacred ponds (Kunda), Kupa and other sacred areas.

This Yatra is done by devotees in every month of year, but yatra have more religious importance in Sravan month (July and August), Purushotam month of Hindi Calendar and Shivratri.

Devotees cover this whole route by walking.

1st Halt- Kandawa:

Devotees start "Panch Kroschi Yatra" from Manikarnika Ghat and reach Kandawa through Assi Ghat, while attending and worshipping at various temples on the way. Here situated the temple of Kardmeshwara Mahadeva. Close to the temple, there is a huge ancient holy pond called Kund, where all the devotees take bath and perform early rituals.

2nd Halt- Bhimchandi:

Second day, devotees start their walk towards Bhimchandi. They worship at every temple which comes in a way during the walk in between Kandawa and Bhimchandi, the famous Unmetta Bhairav Temple can be found. Next to the temple of Goddess Bhimchandi and Lord Shiva, there is a spacious Talaab (pond).

3rd Halt- Rameshwaram:

Third day, devotees start moving towards Rameshwaram. Close to it, there is Delhi Vinayak Temple, which is a temple of Lord Ganesha. Rameshwaram is an ancient temple of Lord Shiva which has the same importance as of the great Rameshwaram temple of Tamil Nadu. In the premises of Rameshwaram temple; there are other temple of Lord Rama, Lakshman, Bharat and Shatrughana.

4th Halt- Shivpur:

Fourth stoppage of Panch Kroschi Yatra is in Shivpur which is located in the Varanasi city. A large Talaab (pond) can be found here too, on the way to Shivpur, there are the temples of Lord Shiva, Goddess Durga, Pandavas and Lord Hanuman.

5th Halt- Kapildhara:

The Panch Kroschi Yatra ends at Kapileshwar Mahadev Temple which is situated at Kapildhara where huge numbers of devotees come to worship. There is a great importance of giving memorial ceremony to ancestors at this temple.

In the close proximity of Kapildhara and near confluence of river Varuna and Ganga, there is a 'Jav- Kharv' Vinayaka temple situated where devotees offer barley to Lord Ganesha. From here, devotees walk through the bank of river Ganga or take boats, as per convenience and head towards Manikarnika Ghat. After completing their resolution (Sankalp) the pilgrims visit Shri Kashi Vishwanath Temple, Annapurna Temple, Ganesh and Kaal Bhairav Temple to worship and conclude their Panchkroschi Yatra.

BANARASI SAREE

Banarasi Sarees are elegant brocaded silk sarees. These are known to be the finest sarees of the country and has been popular for its golden and silver zari work. Because of the metal zari work, these sarees look very gorgeous and are comparatively heavier.

This Gali in its present form is adorned with nearly thousands of shops, a stock of Banarasi silk textiles where Banarasi Sarees have been made available to customers/ tourists for generations.

The weaving of Banarasi silk craft of Kunj Gali shops is made by hand weaving by the traditional artisans of Banaras. Artisans from rural areas of Varanasi like Chhapra, Choubepur as well as cities such as Lohta, Lallapura etc. are famous for the weaving of Banarasi Sarees for sale here. The world famous Kunj Gali is a great tourist attraction for the Banarasi silk textiles full of variations, where tourists and foreigners fond of Banarasi silk fabrics, come to buy clothes made with various Banarasi artifacts.

The Route: Kunj Gali is located about 4 kilometres from Varanasi Cantt Railway station and 15 kilometres from Lal Bahadur Shastri International Airport, Babatpur. Kunj Gali is located opposite the Chowk police station on the Chowk road from Godouli. It is located about 1 kilometre from Godouli crossroad and about 500 meters from the world famous Kashi Vishwanath temple. The distance from here to Ganga Ghat is about 2 kilometres.

CRAFT

Undercut Stone Carving of Ramnagar

On the other side of the Ganges resides — Ramnagar. Meanwhile, in Ramnagar lives one beautiful art that is a perfect mixture of simplicity and prodigality. The locals of 'Bhang Wali Gali' — are traditionally been involved in the work of elegant carving works for generations. Ivory, Bone and Sandalwood was used for the artwork in older days, which are replaced by marble rock tablets now.

The outcomes of the work are not just very beautiful but also stupefying as the precise design involves net like carvings above the model and inside the model there is a replication of the same model. The models are fine and hollow from inside. The beautiful decorative pieces are result of minute arts of excellent calibre

Zardozi Badge Making

The works of Zardozi Badge Making craft has been residing in the city since the Colonial era. The work of Zardozi is not concentrated in a singular field specific art, different forms of the art are also prominently performed in Lucknow and Allahabad, but the Badge making craft is essentially done here at Shivala Varanasi. The making of rank badges for the defence and police forces are used not only India, but many other countries around the world. Zardozi involves embroidery work with Zari, Which formerly used 'Khalabatun', which we silver threads coated in gold.

Wooden Lacquerware & Toys

The Varanasi Lacquerware is the producer of eccentric toys that are crafted in detail and coloured in fluorescent and bright colours. All the toys are being manufactured with eucalyptus, Goolar and Coraiya woods and are carved and coloured with hands. The colouring is done with lac by processing, heating, mixing and cooling.

The intricate designs were loved even before the discovery of the silk route. One of the main products produced here is the Wooden Sindoor, which is a beautiful, conical leaded pot of Sindoor, it is one of the most essential part of Hindu marriage and marital life of a Hindu woman. These toys are exported to foreign market in bulk.

In the areas like Kashmirganj and Khojawan, you will find big families are living making craft together for generations.

Metal repose

While roaming around the lanes of Kashipura, the sonorous sound of hammers can be noticed. The sound is nothing else but the unveiling of the beautiful craft of Metal repose. Diverse items are created in this field of metal craft. The malleable precious sheet of metals like Gold, Brass, Silver, or copper is moulded into required shapes and then they are covered with a layer of liquid Lac on the reverse side. When the Lac is settled, the metal sheets are hammered and chiselled over the Lac, which bulges the design on the forefront. Platters, jugs, betel boxes and many other such articles decorated with these endemic fretworks leave everybody spellbound.

Gulabi Meenakari

An art form of its kind Gulabi Meenakari stands for the "Artwork of silver". Meena means Silver and Kari means artwork. Beautiful ornamental designs by moulding the metal and very intricately hand-painted floral patterns with lustrous colours make this artwork into eye-catching pieces of art. The colours used are extractions of precious metals, stones and minerals. The process of extraction involves indigenous artistic and scientific treatments. For example, the pink (GULABI) colour is created from the gold, using an old and unique oriental technique of mixing it with precious stones.

Visiting artisans and their homes based studios situated in the Gaighat area is a fantastic experience.

Carpets of Bhadohi

Renamed as 'Sant Ravidas Nagar', Bhadohi has been called the 'Carpet City' for a long time. The hand knitted carpets of Bhadohi are majorly exported to the foreign countries and give a great deal of competition to the neighbouring countries.

The hand woven carpets are solely made of wool and are woven with minute details. Each rug has been taken into special attention by the artisans. These are made with adequate technology and fine skills and the new technology and creation has updated itself with time. The gorgeous carpets look splendid when they are finished and ready to be sold.

Bamboo Baskets

Everybody who has been around Asia Pacific, must have noticed the street side hawkers and traders selling things on bamboo baskets. These baskets are also made around Varanasi by people living in suburb makeshift slums. Made only using scraps of bamboo and a sharp knife, these baskets are fully biodegradable and light in weight. The sticks of bamboo are woven and painted entirely by hands.

Bouquet baskets, shoe racks, flower baskets are some other products made out same bamboo sticks.

Bell Metal Works

Around the alleys of Kashipura, the thriving works of art can be spotted while in process. But the display of the art is everywhere, from the bells of the temples to the fascinating daily use vessels made with distinct bell metal or mix metal in Varanasi.

By using ancient technique of sand casting; craftsmen are making these gorgeous household items by using old scrap metal and melting them in their home made oven. Ever household of India has at least on piece of bell metal vessel and there is no temple in India without a bell.

Black Pottery

The Black pottery is an array of unusual pots and vessels created with tremendous technique. Made near Nizamabad of Azamgarh district, this craft is made with the local soil of the local land. The pots are made into different shapes and designs; they are then baked with rice husk that gives them their unique black colour. The pots are sometimes decorated with silver coloured engravings and they are reheated several times to get the adequate quality. It has been appreciated for centuries for its unusual technique of creation and splendid design.

Markandey Mahadev Temple

This Mahadev Temple in Varanasi is dedicated to Markandey Rishi, who is believed to be the incarnation of Lord Shiva.

He is accredited with the composition of the Maha Mrityunjaya Mantra, which is chanted by devotees to seek the blessings of Lord Shiva.

Pind Daan Tarpan is a Hindu religious ritual performed for the peace of the ancestors' souls. This ritual is usually performed on the banks of river Ganga, but it can also be performed at other holy rivers or places.

This ritual is especially important in Varanasi, as it is considered most sacred here. Pinds are prepared in small balls mainly by mixing flour and water together for the ceremony.

The priest recites mantras and prayers while offering these pinds to the ancestors. Following the completion of the Pind Daan Tarpan ceremony, devotees provide food and water as offerings to their ancestors, accompanied by prayers for their peace and liberation.

Trade Facilitation Center and Craft Museum

In the crowd of mass produced machine products, the genuine art is often left unheard. In order to amplify the esteem of these charismatic art works, a massive Trade Facilitation Center was established in the, Bada Lalpur area of Varanasi on 22nd _ of September 2017 by the hon'ble Prime Minister of India himself. The center is an art museum, where the artists can display their art works in distinct art galleries, like textile gallery, handlooms and weaves gallery, carpet gallery and many such galleries where the pieces of art are found to be appreciated and explored. The facilitation center is a massive step taken by the Government of India and is one of its kind museums found in all over the country.
